The budget workshop began at 5:00pm.

Dean Micah Rodgers presented the following:

Introduction and Agenda:

- The workshop focused on reviewing the operating and capital outlay budgets.
- The agenda included guiding principles, state revenue comparisons, student fee comparisons, and budgetary highlights.

Guiding Principles and Budget Assumptions:

- The budget was prepared assuming the governor would sign the 2425 Appropriations Act (House Bill 5001) without vetoes, which was not entirely the case.

- Key assumptions include investments in employees and continuing support for career workforce education and instructional programs.

Impact of Governor's Vetoes:

- The governor vetoed $80 million for state health insurance and $200 million for the Department of Managed Services, affecting the budget.
- The college needs to amend the budget pending clarification on the full impact of these vetoes.

State Funding and Comparisons:

- State funding for the current year includes $11.85 million total, with a recurring amount of $10.7 million.
- There is a notable decrease in pipeline funding (performance money) from $1.6 million to $909,000.
- Despite this decrease, state revenue is up 20% compared to two years ago, largely due to successful advocacy for additional funding.

Student Fees and Expenditures:

- Student fees remain unchanged.
- The operating budget includes a step increase and a 3% raise for employees, excluding adjunct instructors.

Investments and New Positions:

- New investments include positions for an LPN instructor, an Agri-Business instructor, business faculty, and an instructor for a new Organizational Management degree program.
- Other investments target workforce education programs, including the renovation of the welding lab and acquiring new equipment.

Deficit Budget Strategy:

- The college has used a deficit budget strategy to invest in programs and boost enrollment.
- Previous years' deficits were managed effectively, and the investment strategy has shown positive results in student headcounts, full-time equivalents, and completions.

Capital Outlay Budget:

- The capital outlay budget includes deferred maintenance projects and improvements such as HVAC and lighting upgrades.
- A federal grant will fund a new Community Center on campus, with $125,000 from the college and $4 million from federal/state funds.
- Future capital outlay budgets will be adjusted based on funding availability and project requirements.

Discussion and Concerns:

- There were concerns about the governor's budget decisions and their impact on rural communities and career workforce education.
- The discussion highlighted the need for better communication and advocacy to address the specific needs of rural areas.
- The workshop concluded with a brief discussion on further steps and an acknowledgment of the challenges faced.
- The workshop ended at 5:30 p.m.
